Marcin Feder has worked as an interpreter at the European Parliament in Brussels since 2003; currently heads the Polish Language Unit there. Born in 1973, he received his Ph.D. from Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań in 2001 for a dissertation on "Computer- Assisted Translation. A Proposal for Tool Evaluation Methodology". Between 1997 and moving to Brussels worked as a university teacher (translation / interpretation) at the School of English of Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań and the Russian and English Studies Department of the same university. From 1999 until 2000 was a Fulbright scholar at the Monterey Institute of International Studies.