Background Information

On 12 April 2018, the Conference of Presidents of the European Parliament decided for the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs (LIBE Committee) - with the association of the AFCO, JURI and ITRE Committees - to organise a hearing on the Facebook/Cambridge Analytica case.

On 22 May 2018, the Conference of Presidents, the Chair of the Conference of Committees Chairs, and the Chair and Rapporteur of the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs met with Mark Zuckerberg, CEO and Founder of Facebook in order to have the explanation of Mr Zuckerberg about the use of Facebook users' data by Cambridge Analytica and the issues related to data protection, impact on electoral processes, fake news, the market position of Facebook and so forth. As requested at this meeting, Mr Zuckerberg has replied in written to some of the questions unanswered during the meeting.<sup>1</sup>

During the meeting of 22 May 2018, President Tajani indicated that, following the decision of the Conference of Presidents, the LIBE Committee would now conduct an investigation and would hold several hearings to have a clear and complete picture of these serious and worrying facts.

The LIBE Committee will conduct, in association with the AFCO, JURI and ITRE Committees, hearings in order to gather the views of different relevant persons and actors involved in the Facebook users' data by Cambridge Analytica. The goal would be to identify the impact of the misuse of these data on the fundamental rights of private life, protection of personal data, right to receive and impart fair information, the impact on electoral processes, the market position of Facebook etc.

On 4 June 2018, the first part of a hearing was held to better understand the Facebook/Cambridge Analytica case and to map its main elements. Members heard Sandy PARAKILAS, Chief Strategy Officer at the Center for Humane Technology; Carole CADWALLADR, senior journalist at The Guardian; Elizabeth DENHAM, Information Commissioner at ICO (UK); James Dipple-Johnstone, Deputy Commissioner (Operations) at ICO (UK); Professor David CARROLL, associate professor at Parsons School of Design in New York and Christopher WYLIE, former employee at Cambridge Analytica.

On 24 May 2018, Coordinators of the political groups in the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs (LIBE) decided to focus the second part of the hearings on the specific consequences of the Facebook/Cambridge Analytica case and agreed on the programme on 31 May 2018. Special attention will be put on privacy and data protection implications (including applicable jurisdiction), the alleged impact on electoral processes, the consumer's trust in online platforms and cybersecurity. A third hearing will focus on possible solutions and those EU policies that could remedy the negative consequences and prevent these from happening again.
