Motion for a resolution*Paragraph 1 a (new)Motion for a resolutionAmendment*

1a. Notes that the neoliberal measures of so-called austerity, which have been reinforced, notably as part of the so-called National Reform Plans, Economic Governance and the European Semester, are contributing to the deepening of the social and economic crisis in a number of countries with more fragile economies, making life more and more difficult for working-class families and in particular for women and children, who are the main victims of the increase in poverty, unemployment, and precarious and poorly paid work;

Motion for a resolution

Amendment

47a. Underlines that measures to enhance security by phasing out precarious employment and the atypical contractual arrangements related to these insecure forms of employment should be strongly promoted by the Member States, with a view to restricting and reducing atypical forms of employment; stresses that any violation should be punished, and that Member States must therefore introduce a combination of secure and reliable employment contracts, active and integrative labour market policies, effective lifelong learning and high-quality social security systems to secure professional transitions; these measures should be accompanied by clear rights for the unemployed to be entitled to adequate benefits and tailor-made measures to help them find quality employment or training and to upgrade their skills and competencies if necessary;

Amendment

67a. Emphasises that, in order to emerge stronger from the economic crisis, be more competitive and convergent, have higher levels of growth and ensure our welfare systems in the long term, Europe should promote quality public services, making full use of our workforce potential in order to ensure workers' rights, and promote collective bargaining and universal public social security;
