

Question for written answer E-008275/2014
to the Commission

Rule 130

Hugues Bayet (S&D) and Marc Tarabella (S&D)

Subject: An accountable Troika with more democratic legitimacy

During the hearings of the Commissioners-designate before the European Parliament, the Vice-President for the Euro and Social Dialogue, Valdis Dombrovskis, explained that 'the Troika must be replaced, over time, with a more democratically legitimate and more accountable structure'.

1. Could the Commission go further in its explanation?
2. On what type of democratic legitimacy does it intend to rely?
3. Was the Troika not already an accountable structure?