Subject: Achievements of 'Youth on the Move'

In 2010, the Commission DG for Education and Culture launched a number of flagship initiatives in the field of education and employment for young Europeans under the Europe 2020 strategy for smart, sustainable and inclusive growth. These include the 'Youth on the Move' initiative to better equip young people for the labour market, for example by improving basic levels of proficiency for the least qualified and raising standards of education and training with a view to ensuring that the qualifications necessary for success on the future employment market can be obtained.

1. Has a mid-term assessment of this initiative been made for 2014?
2. What lessons can be learned from it?
3. What good practices should be highlighted?
