Subject: Pensions - older women

Statistics show that a quarter of women pensioners in the European Union are living in precarious conditions. The gender pension gap stands at 39%, a third of all older women have no pension at all, and many women who have worked in agriculture also receive either no or only a very small pension.

How will the Commission work together with Member States to identify solutions that will make it possible to eliminate these inequalities affecting older women and help achieve the EU 2020 Strategy targets for eradicating poverty, as well as the specific targets for this section of the population?
