Rule 130

Subject: SUP Directive

The directive on single-member private limited liability companies (Societas Unius Personae, SUP) provides another legal loophole that facilitates the transfer of bogus self-employment from one Member State to another. The preconditions for setting up a SUP are low so a SUP could hide bogus self-employed workers in its structures and then temporarily post them to another country.

How will the Commission address the risk of bogus self-employment through SUPs?
