to the Commission

Rule 130

Morten Messerschmidt (ECR)

Subject: Authorisation of various types of business

In Denmark, there is a requirement for businesses involved in electricity supply, public transport or drainage to have an authorised person carrying out the work and to use a quality control system. These rules are designed to ensure that the business has a professionally competent person and that the work is always carried out safely.

Would the Commission explain which rules Member States should use as a basis for setting requirements for authorisation?

Which obligations under EU law could obstruct the introduction of requirements for authorisation within the building, civil engineering or other trades?
