to the Commission
Rule 130

Subject: Education and Renewable Energy Resources

Using renewable energy resources is one of the energy priorities of the European Union.

Awareness of the importance of using renewable energy resources is still relatively low in many Member States. Countries with a significant share of renewable energy resources encounter, in some places, opposition to the use of wind power as a renewable energy.

Does the Commission intend to propose, in cooperation with Member States, tuition in educational systems about the effects of renewable energy resources?
