Subject: Roaming charges in the EU

A proposed regulation, which was passed by Parliament in April 2014 but still needs to be approved by the Council of the European Union, seeks to abolish end-user roaming charges in the EU.

Does the Council really intend to delay the elimination of roaming beyond the original start date of 15 December 2015?

When is the Council planning to approve the proposed regulation?

What are the reasons for the delay?
