

Question for written answer E-003843/2015
to the Commission
Rule 130
Enrico Gasbarra (S&D)

Subject: Labelling of meats

Considering the importance of ensuring that the food products available to European consumers are subjected to strict quality control, and given also the lack of legislation at European level in relation to the labelling of meat obtained from processed bovine products, can the Commission state whether it intends to make it obligatory to indicate the origin of meats contained in processed foods on the label, a practice already followed by several European producers?