

Question for written answer E-003859/2015
to the Commission

Rule 130

Pablo Iglesias (GUE/NGL) and Tania González Peñas (GUE/NGL)

Subject: Evictions

On 17 July 2014, in its judgment in Case C-169/14, the CJEU declared that Spanish Law 1/2013 is in breach of Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union.

According to Spain's National Institute of Statistics, in the fourth quarter of last year 8 819 mortgages on primary residences were taken out – a 29.9 % increase on the previous quarter and 2.9 % higher than the fourth quarter of 2013.

The transitional amendments introduced under Royal Decree-Law 11/2014 have brought a change to the law on mortgage lending. However, various social bodies and voices from the legal profession insist that the new law is still in breach of EU legislation.

In view of the above, in the Commission's view, is the Spanish law on mortgage lending still in breach of Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, pursuant to the CJEU judgment in Case C-169/14, Sánchez Morcillo/Abril García v BBVA?
