Subject: Results of the EU's Integrated Maritime Policy

Thanks to the creation and putting into practice of its Integrated Maritime Policy, the EU has been able over the past few years to coordinate its policies more efficiently in certain specific maritime sectors, thus presenting a more coherent planning structure across the various areas in this field.

What approach does the current Fisheries and Environment Commissioner intend to take as regards the EU's Integrated Maritime Policy?

What is the assessment of the results obtained to date and what are the main priorities to pursue in the light of this assessment?
