Rule 130

Subject: Evolution of the European Globalisation Adjustment Fund

Since 2007 the European Globalisation Adjustment Fund has been helping workers who find themselves unemployed following the closure of their companies or when production has been moved outside the EU as a result of globalisation. The Fund assists them to find another job or undergo further training.

How has this mechanism evolved in terms of the sectors and companies that have had to be assisted to a greater extent from this Fund?

What additional measures is the Commission adopting to help those sectors and companies that have lost more jobs to recover and start to grow?
