

Question for written answer E-004220/2015
to the Commission

Rule 130

Javier Couso Permuy (GUE/NGL)

Subject: Trade protection with regard to Serbia

The Stabilisation and Association Agreement in force with Serbia provides for the possibility of one of the parties taking trade-defence action in the event of possible damage to its industrial production or economy.

Has it been necessary for the EU to implement this sort of measure as a result of Serbia's trade policy since the treaty came into force?