Subject: An integrated system of data on immigrants

Considering that an increasing number of immigrants try, legally or illegally, due to economic, political, security or other reasons, to enter the EU and that among them, unfortunately, there are those who are involved in crime, I ask the European Commission:

Is there a common European integrated data system (for the whole of the EU and the Schengen area) with information on all the immigrants and their status and are data available on those who have been deported from the EU because of illegal status?
