

Question for written answer E-004750/2015
to the Commission

Rule 130

Doru-Claudian Frunzuliță (S&D)

Subject: Anti-terrorism legislation in Turkey

Turkey's broadly framed anti-terrorism legislation continues to be used to criminalise the legitimate exercise of freedom of expression.

Leaders continue to crack down hard on protests, introduce draconian anti-terror laws and use unjustified mass surveillance techniques in response to security threats.

What is the Commission's position on the breaches of human rights in Turkey?