

Question for written answer E-005933/2015
to the Commission
Rule 130
Ulrike Trebesius (ECR)

Subject: Violence by migrants towards sexual minorities

Europe is the goal for migration from all over the world. Immigrant cultures have differing notions about the acceptability of violence in dealings with sexual minorities. Can the Commission answer the following questions in this regard:

1. Is data collected at a European level, by origin and/or by religion, on the acceptance amongst migrants of violence towards sexual minorities?
2. Are studies of this issue being planned, and if not, why not?
3. Is there a European strategy for dealing with this topic?