

Question for written answer E-006099/2015
to the Commission
Rule 130
Francesc Gambús (PPE)

Subject: Removing red tape in agriculture

One of the objectives set by Commission President Jean-Claude Juncker during the mandate of the present Commission was to reduce the amount of bureaucracy generated by the Commission's regulations. This would certainly also help to meet the planned objectives of economic growth and job creation. As agriculture is one of the main economic drivers of the Mediterranean countries most affected by the recession:

- What measures does the Commission plan to take to reduce the bureaucracy created by the European agricultural regulations, with specific regard to fruit and vegetables?
- And what programmes of stimulus and support is the Commission considering implementing, for entrepreneurs in the agrifoods sector?