Subject: Transparency and control of EU funds for nature protection in Spain

For years now Spanish environmental organisations have observed how vast amounts of EU funds – financed from the taxes of our citizens – arrive in Spain for various different projects to conserve flora and fauna, but with poor results.

Given that the cases of corruption in Spain are notorious throughout the whole of Europe:

1. Does the Commission publish annual reports with details of what specific action is taken under each project to conserve flora and fauna?
2. What mechanisms are available to the European Union to ensure proper use of these funds?
