Subject: Evaluation of Euroclima programme

The European Union collaborates with Latin America on combating climate change by way of the Euroclima programme, which aims to facilitate the integration of climate change mitigation and adaptation strategies and measures into the public development policies and plans of eighteen Latin American countries.

This programme was approved in 2009 and started functioning in 2010, and since then it has played an important role.

What is the Commission's assessment of the five years' operation of the Euroclima programme?
