

Question for written answer E-007135/2015/rev.1
to the Commission
Rule 130
Siôn Simon (S&D)

Subject: How is the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights striving to ensure that its workforce is representative of EU citizens?

The Commission has previously stated that it 'strives to be representative of the increasingly diverse European citizens it serves' (response to Written Questions E-008102/14, E-007850/14 and E-007851/14).

What policies does the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights, which falls under the competence of the Commission, have in place to ensure that it is representative of the increasingly diverse European citizens?

What internal strategies does the Agency, which falls under the competence of the Commission, have to ensure that its workforce is representative of the increasingly diverse European citizens?

How does the Agency, which falls under the competence of the Commission, monitor and measure the success of the diversity and representation of EU citizens that it is striving to achieve in its workforce?