Subject: Child poverty in the EU

From the latest figures published by Eurostat, we know that austerity policies have set numerous Europeans on the road to poverty, despite the Europe 2020 strategy targets.

Over 120 million European citizens are at risk of poverty today.

This situation is even more concerning and tragic in relation to children.

Now that the Europe 2020 strategy is at mid-term, could the Commission specify how it is considering adapting the steps it is taking, particularly in order to help the millions of children at risk of poverty?
