Rule 130

Subject: Fines for anti-competitive practices

According to media reports, between 2011 and March 2015 the Spanish national competition authority has imposed fines totalling EUR 985 million in 91 cases investigated for anti-competitive practices. These fines affect all sectors of the economy.

With the above having come to light, I would like to know if the Commission is able to provide information on the fines imposed across all 28 Member States since 2011, both as regards the cases and the overall amounts, together with those imposed by Community authorities, and, where applicable, which sectors have been fined the most for unlawful practices.
