

Question for written answer E-010770/2015
to the Commission
Rule 130
Hugues Bayet (S&D)

Subject: European Humanitarian Aid

The Commission recently presented a Eurobarometer survey on how European citizens view humanitarian aid. The survey found that they take a great interest in the humanitarian aid granted by the EU to countries in a precarious situation.

In fact, over 90% of European citizens believe that it is more effective to provide humanitarian aid at EU rather than national level. This survey shows that Europeans feel genuine concern for vulnerable population groups.

What practical projects does the Commission have for establishing EU humanitarian aid?