to the Commission
Rule 130
Cătălin Sorin Ivan (S&D)

Subject: Road safety

The European Union land transport policy should promote mobility that is safe, secure and environment friendly. Road safety is a major problem and we must all be aware of the massive cost it places on society. The truth is that the European Union is far from achieving its targets for 2020. There are still huge differences between the east and west in terms of traffic fatalities and there are still many things that need to be done to reduce the number of traffic fatalities in the European Union.

What measures did the Commission recently envisage for enhancing road safety in the European Union and for reaching its 2020 targets?
