Subject: Living conditions of migrants abandoned on Kos

Médecins Sans Frontières (MSF) recently published an article condemning the conditions in which migrants are having to live on the island of Kos. The Greek Government is apparently unable to provide reception facilities, and MSF is therefore trying to provide the medical and basic care they need on arrival.

The austerity measures being forced upon the Greek Government are obviously preventing it from providing all the assistance the migrants need.

What steps is the Commission intending to take to assist MSF and the Greek Government to ensure that they can provide all the support that migrants need whilst they wait on the island?
