Subject: Child trafficking in Nepal

UNICEF recently published a document on child trafficking in the wake of the earthquakes in Nepal. Although child trafficking is not a new phenomenon in that country, it is now growing in scale as traffickers cynically take advantage of the natural disaster which has befallen the Nepalese to offer families a better future for their children. What awaits most of the children in fact is a life of prostitution or forced labour in India.

What aid measures is the Commission proposing in an effort to put a stop to these inhuman and illegal practices?
