

Question for written answer E-011453/2015
to the Commission
Rule 130
Siôn Simon (S&D)

Subject: European Convention on Human Rights

As the Commission will be aware, the Conservative British Government is floating the idea of withdrawing the UK from the European Convention on Human Rights.

Does the Commission have a view on how the UK's international reputation would be affected if the UK were to withdraw from the European Convention on Human Rights?

Does it believe that EU Member States should be setting a strong precedent when it comes to human rights and leading from the front?
