

Question for written answer E-013564/2015
to the Commission
Rule 130
Norica Nicolai (ALDE)

Subject: Car manufacturers falsifying emission tests

With regard to:

- (a) the recent scandal involving Volkswagen and other car manufacturers, where it emerged that emission tests for certain car models are consistently falsified,
 - (b) EU emission goals,
 - (c) EU action for consumer protection and
 - (d) the importance of car manufacturers for the EU economy, employing hundreds of thousands of workers.
1. What is the Commission currently doing to address the VW emission scandal?
 2. What is the Commission planning to do in order to protect EU consumers and workers potentially affected by the falsified tests?
 3. What is the environmental impact of the combined undercalculation of emissions from the car models in question and what will the Commission do in order to address the impact?