Subject: Firearms Directive revision and deactivated weapons

On 18 November 2015, the Commission tabled proposals to amend the EU Firearms Directive (Directive 2008/51/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 21 May 2008 amending Council Directive 91/477/EEC on control of the acquisition and possession of weapons).

Does the Commission have any estimates as to the cost that will be incurred by Member States trying to enforce the collection of deactivated weapons made illegal under the new changes?
