

Question for written answer E-002530/2016
to the Commission

Rule 130

Cătălin Sorin Ivan (S&D) and Daciana Octavia Sârbu (S&D)

Subject: Eating disorders

Eating disorders can be included in the list of mental illnesses that are difficult to treat. Of these, anorexia has the highest mortality rate. There is an increasing number of such cases in many EU countries.

Does the Commission have any meaningful data on the rate and prevalence of eating disorders in the European Union?

Does the Commission intend to develop strategies regarding eating disorders?
