

Question for written answer E-002835/2016
to the Commission
Rule 130
Ivan Jakovčić (ALDE)

Subject: Benefits of EU membership

Various surveys of public opinion show that in some Member States, in particular in the 'old' Member States, euro-scepticism is rising. According to a recent poll, the most negative sentiment about the European Union is seen among the French, Belgians, Dutch and Italians. Such opinions among citizens are linked to their perception of the downsides that EU membership brings being greater than the benefits of EU membership.

With what measures does the Commission plan to better present to citizens the benefits of EU membership?