Subject: Moving the EU Institutions in the event of a serious terror threat

The recent terrorist attack in Brussels took place in the immediate vicinity of EU's Institutions, and internally, Belgian authorities are marked by chaos, mismanagement and language confusion, which has turned Brussels into a paradise for criminals and terrorists.

Has the Commission considered moving the Institutions to a city that is safer than Brussels, and to a country safer than Belgium?

The EU already has extensive facilities in Luxembourg and France, and some of the Institutions' employees could be evacuated there.
