

Question for written answer E-003702/2016
to the Commission
Rule 130
Jørn Dohrmann (ECR)

Subject: Registration of stolen and lost access cards

Sometimes employees and people who work in Parliament or the Commission lose their access cards. Sometimes it happens when employees are absent, and they may not realise straight away that they have lost their card.

An electronic chip is fitted in the access card to open the automatic gates inside EU buildings.

What is the procedure when an access card is reported missing?

Do the different institutions keep information on lost access cards, including registering individuals who have lost their cards on multiple occasions?

If not, is the Commission going to tighten up security procedures for EU Institution access cards?