

Question for written answer E-004324/2016
to the Commission
Rule 130
Cătălin Sorin Ivan (S&D)

Subject: Standards for creating antimicrobial substances in the EU

According to media sources, there have been cases where disinfectants used in hospitals within the Union have been diluted and have subsequently caused the deaths of tens of thousands of individuals. This practice has been labelled as genocidal.

Does the Commission know what standards are used for creating antimicrobial substances within the European Union?