Subject: European deposit insurance scheme (2015/0270(COD))

1. Does Commission think that an asset quality review (AQR) of all banks covered by a European deposit insurance scheme would be useful?
2. What practical problems and extra costs does the Commission expect to arise if a European deposit insurance scheme was made contingent upon conducting an AQR?
3. Does the Commission think it would be useful, if significant costs or difficulties were to arise, to limit the European deposit insurance scheme to a specific category of banks on the basis of, for instance, their balance sheet total, the amount of deposits held or their systemic importance?
