

Question for written answer E-007658/2016
to the Council
Rule 130
Edouard Ferrand (ENF)

Subject: Leaving NATO

Given that the EU's various defence projects can never really take shape until NATO, which has so far prevented the development of any kind of European defence policy, is dissolved, is the Council looking into the possibility of the Member States leaving NATO so that a real European defence system can be set up?