Subject: Funding for communication campaigns by human rights NGOs

In response to written question E-007257/2016 on the issue of funding for communication campaigns by NGOs working in the field of human rights, and in particular LGBTI rights, the Commission gives the example of the EIDHR funding provided to NGO Institut Panos Afrique de l'Ouest (IPAO) with its five local partners, through a regional project called 'Voices and ways against homophobia', in Cameroon, Côte d'Ivoire and Senegal. The Commission states that this is just one example of the various projects financed.

Can the Commission give any other examples of funding, through the EIDHR or other funds, of communication campaigns to raise awareness among local public opinion of the issue of LGBTI rights?
