Subject: Revenue from privatisation in Greece

The Greek adjustment programme designed and monitored by the Commission stipulates that Greece must privatise public property. This has not yet taken place according to the agreed timetable. For example, the first agreement proposed that Greece should aim to raise EUR 50 billion in order to reduce the burden on investors. What changes have there been to the amount Greece has promised in privatisation revenue and which agreements contain these clauses? What has Greece's actual revenue from privatisation been since the beginning of the first agreement? Please break down by amount/year. Does the Commission expect Greece to meet the deadline for generating the agreed privatisation revenue (see Question 1)?
