

Question for written answer E-002761/2017
to the Commission

Rule 130

Florent Marcellesi (Verts/ALE)

Subject: High-speed trains

In Spain, and in view of the applicability of EU Regulation No 1315/2013 on Union guidelines for the development of the trans-European transport network, plans have been made to build several kilometres of high-speed train lines, in many cases, with no alternative means being provided for the conventional transport for passengers and/or goods.

Does the Commission know whether these high-speed train lines, which do not take into account the transport of goods, are in line with the target of reducing greenhouse gas emissions by 60% by 2050?