Subject: European Labour Authority

During his State of the Union speech, Jean-Claude Juncker proposed the establishment of a European Labour Authority. The establishment of such an authority, whose purpose would be to ensure compliance with European law and to fight against tax dumping, appears to be a positive initiative. The effective implementation of this European control authority nonetheless raises numerous questions.

1. Will the European Labour Authority be composed of European or national officials?
2. How will its scope for intervention in the national labour markets be defined?
3. How will it cooperate with the national control authorities?
