

Question for written answer E-000046/2019
to the Commission
Rule 130
Alex Mayer (S&D)

Subject: Northern Ireland clock change

Under the current Commission plans to end the practice of putting clocks forward and back by an hour during the year, there is potential for Northern Ireland to be in a different timezone from either the UK or the Republic of Ireland.

What discussions have taken place to ensure such an abnormality does not occur?