Subject: Security of energy supplies to Lithuania

EU energy security is at the top of the EU political agenda. In order to guarantee stable energy (i.e. electricity) supplies, Lithuania is trying to prolong the work of the Ignalina Nuclear Power Point until the new NPP is built in the country.

Taking into account energy security issues, the challenges of climate change, the world economic situation, rising energy prices, potential shortages in energy supply in Lithuania after 2009 and Lithuania's long-standing commitment to close the INPP but with a few years postponement, will the Council support Lithuania in overcoming the difficulties which occurred already after 2004 when Lithuania joined the EU?
