Subject: Antidumping and countervailing duties on solar panels

On 26 January 2017, the Standing Committee on Trade Defence Instruments voted to repeal the Commission draft implementing regulations that reimpose antidumping and countervailing duties on solar panels and cells from China.

1. Will the Commission withdraw the draft implementing regulations?
2. If the Commission decides not to withdraw the implementing regulations, how will it adapt the regulations to ensure acceptance among Member States in line with the rules regarding comitology?
