amendment 19

First part

‘Culture is key to strengthening inclusive, cohesive and reflective communities, to revitalising territories and to promoting social inclusion for people with a disadvantaged background.’

Second part

‘In the context of migration issues and integration challenges, culture plays a fundamental role in creating inclusive spaces for intercultural dialogue and in the integration of migrants and refugees, helping them to feel part of host societies, and in the development of good relations between migrants and new communities.’

amendment 23

First part

‘The mobility of artists and cultural workers as regards skills development, learning, intercultural awareness, co-creation, co-production, circulation and dissemination of artworks and participation in international events such as fairs and festivals is a key prerequisite for a better linked, stronger and more sustainable cultural and creative sectors in the Union.’

Second part

‘Such mobility is often hampered by the lack of legal status, difficulties in obtaining visas and the duration of permits, the risk of double taxation and precarious and unstable social security conditions.’

amendment 31

First part ‘It is of particular importance that the Commission when preparing the development of the technical screening criteria, carry out appropriate consultations in line with Better Regulation requirements. The process for the establishment and the update of the technical screening criteria and the harmonised indicators should also involve relevant stakeholders and build on scientific evidence, socio-economic impact, best practice and existing work and entities, notably, the European Commission Circular Economy Platform, and the advice of experts with proven knowledge and global experience in the relevant areas. For that purpose, the Commission should set up a Platform on sustainable finance. This Platform should be composed of a wide range of experts representing both the public and the private sector to ensure that the specificities of all relevant sectors are duly taken into account. Public sector representatives should include experts from the European Environmental Agency and national environment protection agencies, the European Supervisory Authorities the European Financial Reporting Advisory Group, and the European Investment Bank. Private sector experts should include representatives of relevant stakeholders, including financial and non-financial market actors, representatives of the real economy representing a wide range of industries, universities, research institutes, associations and organisations. Where necessary the Platform should be allowed to request advice from non-members. The Platform should advise the Commission on the development, analysis and review of technical screening criteria and harmonised indicators, including their potential impact on the valuation of assets that until the adoption of the technical screening criteria were considered sustainable under existing market practices. The Platform should also advise the Commission on whether the technical screening criteria and indicators are suitable for further uses in future Union policy initiatives aimed at facilitating sustainable investment.’

Second part ‘The Platform should advise the Commission on the development of sustainability accounting standards and integrated reporting standards for corporates and financial market participants, including through the revision of Directive 2013/34/EU.’

Second part

‘all efforts to work with third states must go hand in hand with improving the human rights situation within these countries;’

PPE:

Recital L

First part

‘whereas non-proliferation and disarmament will have a significant effect in reducing the fuelling of conflicts and contributing to more stability, in accordance with the obligations stemming from the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons and Parliament’s related resolution on nuclear security and non-proliferation; whereas a world without weapons of mass destruction is a safer one;’

Recital J

First part Text as a whole excluding the words: ‘whereas the EU has always prided itself on its soft power and will keep doing so; whereas an evolving reality that gives rise to concerns, however, requires the EU not to remain an exclusively ‘civilian power’, but to develop and strengthen its military capabilities, which should be used in a consistent and coherent manner with all other EU external action;’

Second part those words

amendment 4

First part ‘whereas the Treaty requires the EU and its institutions to implement a common foreign and security policy (CFSP), including an effective and reliable common security and defence policy,’

Second part ‘which might lead to a common defence in accordance with the provisions of Article 42, thereby reinforcing European and universal values, norms and principles as enshrined in Article 21 TEU, in particular as regards the promotion of peace, security and progress in Europe and in the world; whereas the proposed Facility is to be welcomed as a progressive step in this direction, and the VP/HR is to be encouraged to pursue its further development and implementation;’
