1. Opening statements

Mr André BRIE, the Co-Chair of the EU/Chile Joint Parliamentary Committee, opened the meeting at 9.10 a.m. He welcomed the senators and members of parliament attending, and the members of the diplomatic corps and European institution officials who were present.

He said that the EU and Chile were currently enjoying excellent relations, and mentioned the parliamentary dimension, highlighting the fact that meetings were being held at a rate of two a year.

He then listed events in the EU since the previous October's meeting of the JPC, highlighting the accession of Bulgaria and Romania, and reporting on the crisis caused by the draft European Constitution.

He then moved on to problems currently concerning European citizens, stressing environmental issues and above all, climate change.

With regard to Latin America, he mentioned the elections which took place in 12 countries last year, and the impact thereof on the region's political map. Integration, however, had not progressed in 2006.

With respect to EU-Chilean trade, he highlighted the previous year's good results, which had seen trade flows double.

Mr Roberto MUÑOZ BARRA, Co-chair of the European Union/Chile Joint Parliamentary Committee then welcomed the major progress achieved with regard to relations between the two parliaments, thanks to the application of Article 9 of the EU/Chile Association Agreement, and reported on the political and economic situation in Chile.

He mentioned the network of trade agreements signed by Chile, stressing that the agreement with the EU was far-reaching. With regard to the future, he underlined the need for greater involvement of SMEs and putting energy issues on the bilateral agenda.

He then moved on to the bogging-down of the Doha negotiations and the need to make an effort with regard to the agricultural chapter, so as to get the negotiations unblocked. He said that there was concern in Chile that a fresh wave of protectionism might be in the offing, which could have negative implications for development in Latin America.

Mrs BRIERBRAUER, representing the EU Presidency-in-Office, highlighted the excellent state of EU/Chilean relations, the way in which Chile had steadily maintained a moderate position in international fora, and its pragmatic approach when it came to resolving disputes.

With regard to the Doha Round, she said that she felt that a failure would see a return to protectionism, in which all parties would be losers.

Mr DUPLÁ del MORAL, Commission Director (RELEX), mentioned Chile's current economic buoyancy and addressed the trade aspects of Chilean-EU relations, highlighting the 60% rise in Chilean exports and the increase in European investment. He then reported that all the development funds for 2002-2006 had been spent, highlighting the new areas of cooperation for the new period, particularly democratic consolidation and social cohesion, higher education, and developing Chilean digital television.

Chilean Congressman Mr Pablo LORENZINI BASSO, Vice-chair of the Chilean Delegation, spoke about the importance of interparliamentary relations. He reported on recent ministerial changes in Chile and the expectations aroused by the Doha Round; he ended by highlighting Chile's establishment of a Budgetary Control Office.

Finally, Mr Juan SALAZAR, the Chilean Ambassador to the EU spoke about the excellent way in which the three pillars of the Agreement - trade, political dialogue and cooperation - had been working. He highlighted the need to update the agreement by means of the review clause, to keep pace with the changing realities on both sides, in which context he called for Europe to be opened up to Chilean products like olive oil and beef.

2. Adoption of draft agenda

The chair suggested that the item on agriculture be taken first. The draft agenda was duly adopted.

3. Approval of the minutes of the V CPM EU/Chile JPC (Valparaíso, 4-5 October 2005)

The minutes of the Vth CPM EU/Chile JPC held in Valparaíso were approved.

Issues

4. Economic and trade issues:

The common agricultural policy (CAP):

Mrs Christa KLASS, the European rapporteur, said the CAP as a policy in constant evolution and that 18 million EU citizens were farmers. The 2003 reforms had profoundly changed the CAP, which had ceased to be production-based and had become geared to protecting farmers, the environment, and the countryside.

With regard to Doha, she recalled that the promise to abolish subsidies had gone hand-in-hand with an undertaking that the other parties would do likewise.

She ended by reporting on the forthcoming reform of the fruit and vegetable and wine sectors, and suggested with regard to the last, that both sides should seek joint positions when it came to debating international standards or rules.

Mr URIARTE, the Chilean rapporteur, spoke about the difficulty experienced by Chilean products in penetrating the EU market and competing with heavily subsidised European products. He recalled that the Association Agreement ought to be facilitating the removal of these obstacles.

In the discussion which ensued, Mr PIZARRO, Mr GAZMURI LORENZINI and Mr PALMA spoke for Chile about the failure of the Doha Round, the distortions created by EU subsidies, and the EU wine surplus and its elimination. They also mentioned the risks of a return to bilateralism.

Senator Roberto MUÑOZ, the Chilean co-chair said that it was difficult to understand the difference between subsidies and aid, since they both had the same effect of distorting the market.

On the European side, Mr SURJAN, Mr GLANTE, Mr FOURTOU and Mr STEVENSON spoke about the EU reforms and Chilean fish exports to the EU. The discussion was then interrupted in order to allow the President of the European Parliament, Mr Hans-Gert Pöttering, to address the meeting; he welcomed the participants and said how important the recently established Euro-Latin American Assembly, Eurolat, was for the future of bi-regional relations.

Small and medium enterprises:

The subject was introduced by Mr BONNEFOY, representing the Commission (Trade), who spoke about the advantages the Association Agreement offered to SMEs. The Agreement also included a dispute-resolution mechanism.

The rapporteur also raised the issue of intellectual property right protection.

Finally, he observed that Chile had become, after Brazil, the region's largest exporter to the EU.

Mr Luis MAIA, representing the Commission (Relex), spoke about specific EU action in favour of SMEs, namely economic and technical cooperation and the fomenting of innovative businesses. This, along with strengthening the state and environmental protection had been the three main thrusts of cooperation in 2006.

Mr Lutwin STRAUCH, representing the German Industry and Trade Chamber in Belgium, spoke about the work of the EU-Latin American Business Forum, whose objective was to put proposals from the business world to the Heads of State and of Government prior to all regional or bilateral summits. Mr Dirk VANTYGHEM, representing the Eurochambers of Trade in Brussels, spoke about the difficulty of comparing EU and Chilean SMEs, since in Chile, the European SME counted as a large business. With respect to the Agreement, he recalled that one of its benefits had been a significant increase in German business investment in Chile, particularly in transport and telecommunications.

In the ensuing discussion, Mr LORENZINI and Mr FORNI, speaking for Chile, said how important SMEs were for President BACHELET's government; they employed 80% of the country's workforce. One of the measures that had been adopted was the establishment of credit facilities for SMEs.

Application of the REACH Directive:

Mr Alberto ROBLES, of the Chilean Congress, drew particular attention to the application modalities of the Directive, given that its provisions would have to be applied by the Chilean mining industry, for example, in order to export products when trading with the EU, and he asked for third countries to be provided with information on the application of the Directive. He also proposed that third countries should hold a meeting to exchange experiences in this field.

Doha Round:

Mr Ignasi GUARDANS, MEP, spoke about the increase in EU-Chilean trade - Chilean exports to the EU had increased by 150%, and EU exports to Chile by 35%, although this was partly due to the rise in the price of copper. The EU was Chile's leading trading partner, ahead of MERCOSUR and NAFTA.

Chile's attraction for European investment was to a large extent due to the network of trade agreements negotiated by the country, of which there were currently no fewer than 54.

Should the next meeting of the Doha negotiators fail, this would be a problem due to the approaching end of President BUSH's negotiating mandate. Such a failure would have negative consequences for all parties involved.

During the ensuing debate, Mr GAZMURI, said he doubted whether there would be a successful outcome, and said that the result would be a return to bilateralism. Mr URIARTE and Mr LORENZINI, for the Chilean Congress, proposed that alternatives to Doha be sought.

Mr GARZOTI, for the Commission, also foresaw that the Doha negotiations would fail if, at the forthcoming G4 (EU, USA, Brazil and India) meeting, the situation were not unblocked.

5. Political issues:

Political situation in Chile and Latin America:

Senator Roberto MUÑOZ highlighted the fact that democratic governability had been achieved because Chilean society was in agreement as to the need for participative democracy. Once democracy was achieved, the new objectives of the concertation government included achieving sustainable, job-creating economic growth which would enable health, education and housing to be improved. Multilateralism and free trade likewise played a very significant role in achieving these goals. Other Chilean Government priorities included achieving a fairer distribution of income, gender equality, the creation of stable employment within the formal economy, and developing SMEs. He also spoke about human rights and the programmes of compensation for victims and their families.

Finally, he mentioned the recent establishment of the Chilean Ministry of the Environment, and congratulated the EU on having achieved its commitment to reduce CO₂ omissions.

In the ensuing discussion, Mr Pablo LORENZINI, for the Chilean Congress, spoke about Chilean economic growth and the government's intention to boost the use of the Chilean peso in international transactions.

The Latin American Assembly:

Senator Jorge PIZARRO, the Chilean rapporteur and Eurolat Co-President, spoke about the establishment of Eurolat and the adoption of its rules of procedure last November. Nonetheless, he stressed the need to increase the number of members to 150, in order adequately to represent the different regional integration parliaments and the members of the Chilean and Mexican JPCs.

He ended by speaking about the working agenda for 2007 which would shortly be discussed in Mexico.

Mr BRIE and Mr JARDIM, for the EP, supported the proposal to increase the number of Eurolat members.

6. Other business:

Energy policy: renewable sources and alternative energies:

Mr Laszlo SURJAN, MEP, addressed the fact that the EU was unable to meet even 50% of its own energy needs; it was 84% dependent as far as gas was concerned, and 93% dependent for oil. This situation could involve serious risks if it were to be exploited as a means of exercising political pressure by certain countries.

He also mentioned the consequences that climate change could have for energy consumption.

He ended by calling for a policy which would seek alternatives to the current state of dependency, particularly on the USSR [sic].

In the ensuing debate, Mr GLANTE spoke for the European Parliament and Senator Jaime GAZMURI for Chile. Mr GLANTE reported on a series of proposals which the Commission would be putting forward in October with a view to reducing energy dependency, while Senator GAZMURI proposed that the issue be placed on the agenda for the forthcoming JPC meeting.

7. Adoption of the Final Declaration

The co-chairs then submitted the draft Joint Declaration to the meeting; it was adopted by both delegations by consensus.

8. Date and place of the VIIth meeting of the EU/Chile Joint Parliamentary Committee

The next meeting would take place in the first week of October 2007 in Chile.

The meeting closed at 18.30 p.m.

SIXTH MEETING OF THE EUROPEAN UNION-CHILEAN
JOINT PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE

27 March 2007

Brussels, Belgium

The Sixth Interparliamentary Meeting having concluded its deliberations, the Delegations from the Chilean National Congress and the European Parliament to the EU/Chile Joint Parliamentary Committee (JPC), headed by their Co-chairs, Mr Roberto MUÑOZ BARRA and Mr André BRIE, agreed on the following

JOINT DECLARATION

1. The Chilean and European Delegations voice their satisfaction at the fact that the two annual meetings provided for in the Rules of Procedure governing the work of the EU/Chilean Joint Parliamentary Committee have taken place as planned.
2. The Chilean Delegation welcomes Bulgaria and Romania's accession to the EU and undertakes to recommend to the Chilean Congress that it ratify the protocol to the Association Agreement taking account of this new EU enlargement.
3. The delegations informed each other about the political events of the last few months in Chile and in Europe, and voiced their concern at the rise in insecurity both at world and individual level.
4. The JPC welcomes the establishment of a new forum for bi-regional interparliamentary dialogue, namely the Euro-Latin American Assembly, EUROLAT. The European Delegation to the JPC undertakes to support the necessary steps to ensure that the Chilean Delegation to the JPC, which will attend the EUROLAT meetings, will comprise three members. Both parties voiced their confidence that EUROLAT's programme of activities for 2007 would be swiftly adopted.
5. Both delegations, aware that the Agreement has yet to achieve its full potential as far as SMEs are concerned, request their respective executives and, in particular, the Commission, that as was the case in the 2002-2006 Framework Programme, the cooperation chapter include action on promoting information to SMEs and developing their ability to undertake innovation and increase competitiveness.
6. Both delegations, aware that bilateral relations are currently excellent, welcomed the proposal by the President of the Commission, Mr Duarao BARROSO, that a regional forum devoted to social cohesion and the fight against inequality be called in Santiago de Chile, to precede the V Summit of EU/LAC Heads of State and Government.

7. Both delegations reiterate their commitment to a clean environment, and to that end undertake to report to each other on the issue.
8. The European Delegation put to the Chilean Delegation the proposal discussed at the IV Meeting of the EU/Mexico JPC, on the possible holding of a joint meeting of both Committees. The delegations agreed that the Bureau of both JPCs would draw up a joint proposal to this effect.
9. The delegations are committed to continuing to evaluate the results of the EU/Chile Association Agreement. Both delegations thank the German Presidency of the Council of the Union and the Commission representatives for the information provided during the meeting. They likewise request that the JPC be involved in the evaluation process.
10. Both delegations, mindful of the spirit of the Agreement and particularly Article 1 thereof, undertake to continue to exchange experiences on issues like immigration. They further agree that the following subjects, inter alia, be included on the agenda of the next meeting of the EU/Chile JPC: agricultural issues, environment, technical innovation and cooperation.
11. Both delegations furthermore reiterate their recommendation to the Association Council and the Commission to continue with the programme of student grants within the framework of the new programming of bilateral cooperation, with a view to improving awareness of their respective realities. They particularly support the scheme to establish a 'Erasmus World' office in Chile.
12. The European Delegation informed the Chilean Delegation of the adoption of the REACH Directive, and both delegations welcome the fact that dialogue and exchange of information has led to improved understanding, both of the Directive and of the problems which it could cause to Chilean operators.

Both parties request the Commission and the Chilean Authorities to provide the JPC with regular information about draft legislation which could affect the Agreement.
13. The JPC reiterated the need to take initiatives to alleviate the impact which climate change is already beginning to have. The Chilean Delegation welcomed the expectations aroused amongst European citizens by the recent Brussels EU Summit on 8 and 9 March 2007, which had focussed on this issue as a priority. Both delegations requested that the issue be included on the agenda of the forthcoming meeting of the Association Council.
14. The delegations further voiced their desire for a reform of the JPC's Rules of Procedure, so as to allow the institutionalisation of Bureau meetings to prepare the plenary sittings.
15. Both delegations reiterate they need also to promote the greatest possible trade in agricultural products, and suggested, in particular, that the Association Agreement Committee should study the possibility of a new, liberalised quota for beef exports.
16. Both delegations again voiced their interest in encouraging cooperation by means of joint projects, to support the initiatives of President BACHELET's government to fight poverty and social inequality. To this end, they undertake to support the priorities set out in the Memorandum of Understanding.

17. Both parties voice the hope that the Doha Round of the WTO negotiations can be concluded by the middle of this year, in the conviction that an agreement could have positive consequences for the development of international trade.
18. Both delegations voice their commitment to strengthening the institutional operation of the parliaments by means of exchanges, meetings and other mechanisms to be agreed on.
19. Both delegations undertake to forward this Declaration to the members of the Association Council, reiterating their wish that the chairman of the EU/Chile JPC attend the Council's future meetings, particularly that to be held in the second half of this year under the Portuguese Presidency.

The delegations agree that the VII Meeting of the European Union/Chile Joint Parliamentary Committee shall take place in Chile from 1 to 5 October 2007.

Done at Brussels, 27 March 2007.
