

Andrei Aliaksandrau
Vice Chairperson of the Belarusian Association of Journalists

Started a journalistic career in 1999 as a TV reporter and then became the news service editor of a local TV station in Navapolatsk, Belarus. He worked as a reporter for independent newspapers, both regional and national, and radio stations. In 2006 Andrei launched an independent regional web site Ximik.info, and has been its editor since that time. He has experience of working for local development and human rights organizations and independent trade unions in Belarus. In 2009 Andrei was elected Vice Chairperson of the Belarusian Association of Journalists.