

Central Asia Project Director Contact Sheet

Paul Quinn-Judge

Central Asia Project Director, Bishkek, Kyrgyzstan

Tel: +995 329 132 71. Mob: +996 772 326 424

pqjudge@crisisgroup.org

Languages: English (native), Russian (fluent), French (fluent), Vietnamese (fluent)

INTERNATIONAL CRISIS GROUP MEDIA OFFICE: +32 (0) 2 541 16 35

Crisis Group role

Paul Quinn-Judge joined Crisis Group in November 2007 as Central Asia Project Director. He supervises the work of a small team of analysts responsible for high quality research and analysis on Central Asia.

Areas of expertise

- Russia
- Central Asia
- South Caucasus

Professional background

Knight International Fellow, South Caucasus and Central Asia

Moscow Bureau Chief, Time Magazine (1996–2006)

National Security Correspondent, Washington Bureau, Boston Globe (1992–96)

Moscow Bureau Chief, Boston Globe (1989–1992)

Moscow Correspondent, Christian Science Monitor (1986–1989)

South East Asia correspondent, Christian Science Monitor; Indochina Correspondent, Far Eastern Economic Review (1984–1986)

Freelance Reporter, South East Asia (1980–1984)

Quaker International Affairs Representative in Southeast Asia (1976–1980)

Saigon Representative, American Friends Service Committee (1973–1975)

MA, Trinity College, Cambridge

Publications and Media (selection)

“Russia’s Brutal Guerrilla War”, Foreign Policy, 31 August 2009

Afghanistan and Central Asia: “The Risk to U.S. Supply Lines”, The Wall Street Journal, 11 March 2009

Tajikistan: “On the Pot-Holed Road to Failed-State Status”, Transitions Online, 19 February 2009

“Cracks in Putin’s Kingdom”, The Christian Science Monitor, 3 September 2008