General remarks

1. Welcomes the European Council's decision to aim at starting accession negotiations with Montenegro in June 2012; calls on EU Member States not to unduly and unreasonably delay the launch of talks given that Montenegro has achieved significant progress to date in fulfilling the required benchmarks;
2. Underlines the need to send a positive signal to Montenegro and other countries working hard on meeting the membership criteria; strongly believes that candidate and potential candidate countries should be judged solely on their own merits and progress in meeting these criteria and that their accession process should by no means be linked to the progress in other neighbouring or candidate countries in order to maintain the credibility of the enlargement process;
3. Notes with satisfaction that IPA assistance works well in Montenegro; encourages both the Montenegrin government and the Commission to simplify the administrative procedure for IPA funding, with the aim of making it more accessible to smaller and non-governmental organisations, trade unions and other beneficiaries;
4. Commends Montenegro for achieving a high degree of compliance with the membership criteria by accomplishing overall satisfactory results in the key priorities;
5. Underlines the necessity and importance of pursuing comprehensive and qualitative efforts in implementing reforms, with particular focus on the area of rule of law and fundamental rights; emphasises that the most important target for such efforts is that of measures to combat corruption and organised crime, which will remain essential throughout Montenegro's accession process; calls on the Montenegrin authorities to continue to implement smoothly their obligations under the Stabilisation and Association Agreement; is of the opinion that the EU institutions will be in the best position to monitor and facilitate the reform of the judiciary once Chapter 23 of the accession negotiations is opened;

6. Welcomes the Commission's new accession negotiations strategy to open Chapters 23 and 24 at the start of negotiations and hopes that these two chapters will be opened as soon as possible to further accelerate judicial reforms in Montenegro;
7. Recalls that the EU is founded on the values of tolerance and equal rights for all in the society; encourages Montenegro to continue to conduct constructive dialogue between political forces with the aim of safeguarding the cohesion of the multiethnic character of the country and in order to overcome the remaining cultural and national divisions, as well as to prevent discrimination;

Political criteria

8. Welcomes the legislative actions taken to improve the working of the national Parliament; recommends, however, to pursue further efforts to make the law-making process more transparent, to enhance public participation in developing new legislation by even closer consultation with civil society actors, to strengthen Parliament's administrative capacities aimed at improving parliamentary performance both in producing legislation and in the political oversight and democratic scrutiny of the executive as well as to use more frequently and efficiently the instrument of consultative and control hearings and to systematically follow up parliamentary questions and demands to the government; more specifically, recommends that the functions and powers of the relevant committee are increased so that the Parliament has adequate and effective oversight of the European integration process;
9. Welcomes the adoption of amendments to the law on the election of municipal councillors and members of parliament, as one of the remaining conditions from the seven key priorities; calls on the Montenegrin authorities, however, to complement such legislative achievements with new actions on strengthening gender equality since this is not yet guaranteed in practice;
10. Stresses the problem that women continue to be severely under-represented in the parliament, on top government posts and in decision-making positions in the public and private sector; therefore welcomes the new provisions that provide for 30% of female candidates on the candidate list, but is in this regard concerned that gender equality is not guaranteed in practice; is also concerned about the widespread violations of women's employment rights, including the right to equal pay; encourages the Montenegrin authorities to step up the work of mainstreaming gender equality policies and introduce the principle of equal pay;
11. Commends further the adoption of amendments to the Law on Education, which puts an end to a long political controversy over the status of the Serbian language in Montenegro's education system; is of the view that this positive compromise highlights the broad consensus of all political forces on the country's cohesive but also multi-ethnic and multi-religious character;

12. Considers the new public administration reform strategy for 2011-2016 a positive step aimed at introducing European standards on recruitment and promotion and measures to increase the efficiency of the State administration; urges the Montenegrin government to address the existing key poorly performing aspects of the administrative system in decision-making and the organisation of government work, including the system of delegation and de-concentration of power, in order to create a de-politicised and professional civil service acting effectively and impartially; calls on the authorities to give priority to good governance, to contribute to the gradual evolvement of a legal-administrative culture and to tackle overloaded and overstretched administrative structures;
13. Notes the progress in the reform of the judiciary, notably inter alia in reducing the backlog of cases in the courts, in adopting measures to reinforce the independence, accountability, impartiality and efficiency of judges and prosecutors, one of the key priorities, and in the more systematic application by the Judicial Council of the disciplinary proceedings against suspected judges and prosecutors; invites the Montenegrin Parliament to adopt constitutional provisions which would reinforce the legal independence and accountability of the judiciary, enhance judicial independence and the professional autonomy of the Judicial and Prosecution Council; underlines the need to more efficiently monitor corruption and conflict of interest rules; calls on the streamlining of the court system aimed at judicial efficiency given that Montenegro continues to be one of the countries with the highest number per capita of basic courts, magistrates, prosecutors and administrative staff in Europe;
14. Calls on the Montenegrin authorities to focus on the selection of judges and prosecutors, their financial independence and the strict implementation of disciplinary rules against both judges and prosecutors in case of non-compliance; further calls on the authorities to increase the transparency of the judiciary; reiterates its call to ensure a predictable judicial system and public trust; requests that the judicial budget be allocated adequate funding on infrastructure, equipment and training in order to enhance the efficiency of the judiciary; considers it important to establish common criteria for judicial training that shall be applied by the Judicial Training Centre;
15. Welcomes further good progress in adopting anti-corruption legislation, in particular the new public procurement law, the law on the financing of political parties and the amendments to the law on conflict of interest; notes, however, that the new public procurement law may be more restrictive than previous legislation and might therefore discourage reporting on corruption; is concerned about the strong role of representatives of political parties in the Commission for the Prevention of Conflict of Interest, which is responsible for implementing the new amendments to the law on conflict of interest; is of the view that the current draft law on the free access to information may restrict access to information and, by doing so, may reduce the ability of civil society organisations and the media to reveal corruption cases; notes that corruption is still prevalent in many areas and continues to be an issue of particular concern and can also cause significant costs to public finances;
16. Encourages the Government to implement in a consistent manner anti-corruption legislation as well as laws on the financing of political parties and election campaigns; invites the competent law enforcement agencies to comprehensively pursue anti-corruption efforts and more corruption cases leading to convictions, including high-level corruption cases; calls on the Montenegrin authorities to introduce more precise mechanisms for the sound implementation and monitoring of anti-corruption initiatives and projects as well as to enhance inter-agency cooperation and information exchange particularly between the police and prosecutors; encourages the Montenegrin Parliament to strengthen its oversight role of the anti-corruption authorities; calls on the authorities to shed more light on allegations of corruption, especially concerning cases of privatization; invites the Commission to assess the impact and results achieved through the allocation of EU funds in the reform of the judiciary and the fight against corruption;

17. Underlines the need to intensify the fight against organised crime, in particular with regard to the strengthening of the administrative and investigative capacities of police and prosecution authorities in order to improve the efficiency of these bodies; considers it important to step up efforts on the efficient processing of criminal intelligence and to further extend international and regional cooperation in combating organised crime, above all money laundering and smuggling;
18. While it acknowledges the legislative progress in ensuring freedom of expression in the media, still notes alleged cases of intimidation and physical violence against journalists and a reported limitation of media freedom; is concerned about the backlog of defamation and libel cases against media and journalists in courts;
19. Calls on the Montenegrin authorities to investigate thoroughly cases of physical violence and intimidation against journalists and to demonstrate their commitment for a media free of political interference; urges the authorities to seriously investigate and prosecute the cases of murder and attacks against journalists as well as the setting of fire to the vehicles of the daily Vijesti and prosecuting those responsible for the attack on the TV Vijesti crew in November 2011 in Humci near Nikšić; invites the authorities to ensure the independence of regulatory bodies and provide all necessary conditions for the media self-regulatory body to start functioning based on best European standards; invites the Montenegrin government to propose amending existing legislation on freedom of information in such a way that it would not lead to restricting access to information and limiting transparency; calls on journalists to comply with professional ethics and standards regarding the respect of privacy and dignity in the media;
20. Welcomes the government's efforts to improve cooperation with non-governmental organisations and calls for continued consultations with civil society in policy-making and law-making; considers it positive that state institutions have appointed NGO contact persons and that many of these institutions set the criteria and procedure for the selection of civil society representatives to the relevant working groups established by the government; underlines, however, the importance of also strengthening the dialogue with trade unions as well as civil society organisations representing or dealing with the most vulnerable groups and gender equality issues;
21. Commends for the generally good inter-ethnic relations including the managing of sensitive issues like ethnicity and language in the population census; notes with satisfaction that the legislative framework concerning anti-discrimination policies and the protection of minorities is largely in place including the Adviser to the Prime Minister for Human Rights and Protection from Discrimination; stresses that further efforts are still needed for its implementation; calls on the Montenegrin authorities to take additional measures to ensure better representation of minorities in public institutions at the national and local levels given that persons belonging to minorities remain under-represented in public institutions; calls on the authorities to fight the discrimination of the Roma, Ashkali and Egyptian communities and improve their living conditions, access to social security, health, education, housing and employment services; furthermore urges the government and local authorities to sign up to the European Framework for National Roma Inclusion Strategies by launching and submitting a ten-year national inclusion strategy after the expiration of the current 2008-2012 strategy to improve the status of the Roma, Ashkali and Egyptian (RAE) population;

22. Welcomes the recent adoption of the Law Against Discrimination, which explicitly mentions sexual orientation and gender identity, and calls for proper implementation of the existing anti-discrimination legislative framework; invites the Montenegrin authorities to strengthen measures to implement the country's legal and institutional framework on LGBT rights; encourages the authorities to take measures aimed at refraining from any intimidation against LGBT organisations and persons and to do its utmost to prevent attacks on the LGBT community;
23. Underlines that Montenegro has ratified the eight core labour rights conventions of the International Labour Organisation (ILO) and the revised European Social Charter; underscores that, although basic labour and trade union rights are provided for in the Labour Code, there are still restrictions; encourages Montenegro to further strengthen labour and trade unions rights; points out the important role of social dialogue and encourages the Montenegrin government to step up its ambitions in the Social Council and further strengthen it; underlines the importance of improving the transparency and effectiveness of the Social Council;
24. Underlines that all political parties, notwithstanding the community that they represent, should strive to maintain a constructive and mature political climate and refrain from taking political instructions from third countries;
25. Encourages Montenegro to enhance the legal framework governing the rights of persons with disabilities and improve their access to employment, including in public institutions; calls on the authorities to adapt public places to their needs and continue with awareness campaigns addressing the social inclusion of people with disabilities;
26. Noting that there are currently approximately 15,000 refugees, internally displaced and displaced persons originating from Croatia, Bosnia and Herzegovina and Kosovo in Montenegro, invites the Montenegrin government to find a lasting and sustainable solution to the issue also by fully implementing its relevant strategy and by pursuing further efforts to provide a legal status to displaced persons; considers important their return to their countries of origin as well as the need to remove remaining obstacles between the countries of the region and facilitate return; in this regard, notes with satisfaction Montenegro's pro-active role in the regional programme "Belgrade Initiative" and the adoption of an action plan to implement the Strategy for Permanent Solution to the Issue of Displaced and Internally Displaced Persons in Montenegro;

Economic criteria

27. Commends Montenegro for preserving the macroeconomic stability of the country but also notes the forecasted slowing of economic growth and the continued high unemployment; encourages the government to accelerate the recovery from the severe economic downturn of 2009 while maintaining fiscal stability with the pursuit of more prudent fiscal policies and reducing public debt in order to create sound economic progress with the aim to improve the standard of living;
28. Welcomes the adoption of important structural reforms, such as the public pension system, the streamlining of public employment, or a new financing scheme for local self-governments; encourages Montenegro to continue structural reforms, in particular strengthening the rule of law, physical infrastructure and human resources and to continue further measures for the removal of business barriers and the improvement of business environment as well as to increase labour market flexibility and boost export competitiveness; continues to be concerned about significant level of informal employment and informal economy, which poses significant challenges to the Montenegrin economy and society;
29. Welcomes the adoption of the development strategy for small and medium-size enterprises (SMEs) for 2011-2015 and the Strategy for the Promotion of Competitiveness at the Micro-Level for 2011-2015; encourages the government to improve coordination of various institutions working in the area, to collect better data on SMEs and to strengthen the system of unified registration of enterprises in order to ensure the effective implementation of these strategies;

Abilities to assume the obligations of membership

30. Invites the Montenegrin government to substantially enhance institutional and administrative capacities as well as the accession-related cooperation and coordination between the relevant State institutions; calls on the authorities, in this respect, to reinforce the administrative capacity of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and European Integration and strengthen the capacities of ministries dealing with key areas of the acquis; calls on the authorities to tackle the fragmentation of the administrative system and overlapping competences as well as to develop policy-making capacities in line ministries with the aim to improve the quality of legislation and ultimately strengthen the rule of law;
31. Welcomes the adoption of the government plan outlining Montenegro's energy policy until 2030 and notes that energy sector reform is a particularly vital challenge facing the country; urges the authorities to accelerate progress in the area of security of energy supply and energy efficiency, as well as to pursue further efforts towards the setting up of a regulatory environment that would foster the increased use of renewable energy sources in all sectors, as required by the relevant EU acquis on renewable energy;
32. Calls on Montenegro to achieve progress on aligning national legislation with the acquis as regards access to environmental information, access to justice, environmental liability and strategic environmental assessment provisions on trans-boundary aspects; urges the authorities to integrate more systematically environment and climate change issues into other sectoral policies; considers it particularly important to address problems of solid waste, waste water and the poorly regulated waste management system as well as to introduce more stringent penal measures for all those who violate the applicable regulations and to establish an efficient inspection monitoring system; furthermore, in general, reiterates the need to resolve the unclear division of responsibilities between the authorities and lack of coherence in their actions as this is seriously hampering progress in the area of environmental protection;

33. Recalls that more than 25% of Europe's biodiversity is located in the Western Balkans region; also recalls that the many small and large rivers and lakes - the largest being the Moraca river and the Skadar lake - host many rare species; calls on the Montenegrin authorities to reconsider plans to build large scale hydropower plants and to mainly rely on energy provided by such sources; recalls the need to draft a national energy strategy, which takes into account the many different renewable energy sources including hydropower at small scale, the need to also respect the natural heritage enshrined in the constitution, which refers to Montenegro as an ecological state and the fact that natural heritage and tourism are two important pillars of the Montenegrin economy; urges the Montenegrin authorities to always conduct environmental and social impact assessments prior to any decision on the construction of new plants in line with EU and international standards such as the Aarhus and Espoo conventions; urges them further to engage in extensive and transparent public consultation processes including relevant civil society organisations when it comes to the planning of future hydropower plant projects and to make relevant decisions, expert opinions and other documentation public;
34. Commends Montenegro for becoming a world-wide tourism destination with high potential for further development; notes, however, the potential risks to the environment stemming from tourism and calls on the government to take further steps to protect nature, also along the coast on the Adriatic sea;

38. Commends Montenegro for the so far smooth implementation of the visa-free regime with the Schengen area, which entered into force on 19 December 2009; urges the authorities, however, to upgrade the administrative capacities of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and

European Integration (MFAEI) as well as its diplomatic and consular network, by creating inter alia an online link between the MFAEI's national visa system and the diplomatic and consular missions and by introducing a visa sticker with security features;

Regional cooperation

39. Commends Montenegro for its commitment and constructive role in contributing to regional stability and strengthening good neighbourly relations with other Western Balkan countries; notes with satisfaction Montenegro's pro-active participation in various regional initiatives in South Eastern Europe; underlines in particular Montenegro's dedication to the signing of extradition agreements with Croatia, the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia and Serbia, by concluding cooperation agreements with financial intelligence services of other countries and by joining on 7 November 2011 the declaration of the foreign ministers of Serbia, Montenegro, Croatia and Bosnia and Herzegovina aimed at finding solutions to the refugee issue in the region;

Welcomes the commitment of both Montenegro and Serbia to place bilateral relations on a sounder footing; encourages political and religious leaders in both countries to continue to improve the climate of inter-ethnic and inter-religious dialogue with a view to reaching an agreement regulating the position of the Serbian Orthodox Church in Montenegro; calls on the Commission to pay attention, in parallel with the accession negotiations, to the relations between the Montenegrin Orthodox Church and the Serbian Orthodox Church, as improved relations between the two churches and communities active in the country would positively affect the political climate in Montenegro;
  41. Notes with satisfaction the good neighbourly relations between Montenegro and Croatia; welcomes the agreement on the cooperation between Montenegrin and Croatian law enforcement agencies which provides a framework for joint activities in different areas of police work like crime prevention, border policing and combating complex forms of regional and international organised crime; welcomes the setting up of a joint commission between Montenegro and Croatia and notes with satisfaction that the two sides have agreed to abide by the International Court of Justice on the still unresolved question of the ownership of the territory of the Prevlaka peninsula;
